Tips to minimize effect of COVID 19 crisis in Professional Life

The impact of the Corona Virus is having a profound and serious impact on the global economy along with routine life. It is also said that Corona Virus will stay for long and we have to be habitual with this. It means, we have to change the ways of living and work for sure. It is also true that unemployment rate increased by more than 25% in India and it will increase in coming time. During this crisis, employees are not getting salaries as per their calibre. Yes, this is very difficult time for students and professionals and having many challenges to stabilize themselves in this unstable market. Definitely, it is possible to minimize the effect of COVID 19 Crisis and shape career in proper way.

Being a management graduate, what to do?

- Focus on multi-dimensional development
- Don't follow the trend (trend is always temporary)
- Identify your strength, Aptitude level, Personality & Interest to shape career
- Upgrade knowledge & skills in respective domain (This will help to create new opportunities in industry)
- Be analytical and research the mood of market (this will help to identify how much effort need to put to position in market)

With such planning, students & professionals can fight against any unknown crisis and succeed in professional career.

Even in the pandemic, GLBIMR has managed to complete the course by organizing online classes and taking online exam. It was a great experience being connected with college through Mentoring Program. Also the institute played a great role in increasing the morale of students by organizing various online webinars which helped us to remain positive through out this tough situation.
